

Artemide earns EPD Certification

This step represents a further commitment in our journey towards sustainability and the recognition of attention to the product's impacts throughout its lifecycle. The analysis underlying the EPD certification has led to the development of an LCA-tool, a tool dedicated to even more conscious and responsible design and production processes for all our products, not just Alphabet of Light.

This environmental product declaration is also a means to increase our customers' awareness of the sustainability of the products and projects in which they are applied.

Our President and CEO, Carlotta de Bevilacqua, emphasized how innovation is the starting point of every project we undertake. Our vision of sustainability is open and inclusive, a path we started long ago and that continues to guide every decision we make.
